Backyard Composting

Wednesday, July 31, 2019

Fairfield Woods Branch Library

NOON

Learn how to compost alongside Master Composters Mary Hogue and Dan Martens from the Sustainable Fairfield Task Force. They will demonstrate the best ways for you to successfully recycle food scraps in your back yard, leaving you with a rich compost that helps to return valuable nutrients to the soil and improve the quality of your garden and lawn. Compost is a natural fertilizer that improves soil aeration, controls weeds and reduces the need to water.

If you can't make this session, there will be another composting seminar offered at the Main Library on Thursday, August 8 at noon.

The Sustainable Fairfield Task Force (SFTF) was formed to encourage community action to help put Fairfield on the path to using clean, renewable energy sources. SFTF creates opportunities for residents to learn how to take control of their energy costs and how to help safeguard the environment.

All Attendees are eligible to receive a 20% discount on a composting bin that may be purchased at the Fairfield Town Hall.

All programs are free and open to the public. Limited seating.
